HONGKONG, JULY TOTH, 1875.

WE regret to hear that the Hongkong ed payment. Humane Society has not received the support its promoters justly hoped for. They need more members; they require more funds. With regard to the former, there ought to be no difficulty in a colony abounding with young men whose time is certainly not so much engrossed by business but that they could spare a little to devote to a society whose aims and objects commend themselves so strongly to benevolent sympathies. There has been such a terrible sacrifice, of human life in this harbour in past times, a great deal of which might have been averted had there been an organisation like the Humane Society, with proper appliances, thatits claims on public patronage ought surely to require no strenuous or repeated advocacy. It is to be hoped that the apathy hitherto displayed by the general public is not the result of indifference, but rather of want of knowledge or forgetfulness. It is with the latter idea that we once more bring the subject before the attention of our readers.

With reference to the raising of funds, we made a suggéstion not long since, to which no official response has yet been made. "An Old Member" writes, however, to-day, supporting our remarks, and trusting the treasurers of the funds of the defunct associations will not hesitate to yield an account of their stewardship. To this no objection can possibly be taken, and we can only hope our correspon. dent's hints will be taken. We are anxious to see this excellent society well started, and funds are of course necessary for the purpose The moneys belonging to the old Debating Society and the Volunteer Association could not be devoted to a more beneficent cause. But failing these funds, an appeal must be shirt out of a looker and put it in another. He made to a generous public. It is in contemplatton, we believe, to hold a public meeting out of the locker where he bad seen him place The train was rolling along from Salt Lake to mination aforethought; but I do not think it to advance the claims of the new society, and such a proceeding would probably do much a flannel shirt produced as belonging to him, miner who was in the smoking carriage to play mu did, in the sighth. But Kioto was not to help it forward.

Another outrage has, we learn, been committed on foreignors in Clima. Only a few sent to four months hard labour. days since intelligence arrived of an attack on Doctor Bushell, of the English Legation, with some difficulty from a violent mob, by whom they were pelted with stones. On the very same day two Cossack soldiers of the duty last night, found Police constable Henry the money. Unfortunately for him, at this The dwelling place of seventy successive Mika-Russian Legation were also assaulted and seriously injured by the populace. The latest outrage occurred at Pay-hwa-san Temple, some forty miles west of Peking. Baron von MULLENDORF and four gentlemen of the Eng. lish Legation went there on an excursion, and were received at first by the people in a most friendly manner. The following morning however, without any warning, an attack of a most furious description was commenced upon them, and the building in which they were housed was nearly demolished by the work is easy, promises also to be soon finished, the other's grasp, the pistol at his forehead, simple form, and their exterior is so plain as to missiles thrown against it. A futal termination to this determined attack seemed at one time imminent; but fortunately the little party were armed with revolvers, and with these they were enabled to intimidate the mob, by firing over their heads. This movement created a momentary panic among their assailants. who fell back, and the Europeans availed themselves of the opportunity and made good their escape. They did not get off, however, until all of them were more or less injured. The object and origin of this sudden out. French production.

rage has not yet transpired. Probably it will not be known. There seems little doubt that the people were at their first appearance disposed to be civil and friendly; some hater Palmieri, gave a costume concert at the Theatre of the foreigner or emissary of the party hostile to thom probably stirred up popular feeling against them during the night. There are plenty of such fellows ready to do the foreign ers a bad turn at any and every opportunity, and most of the collisions between foreigners and the natives are due to their machina tions. There is very little doubt-that Baron Von Möllendorr's party would have been all murdered had they been unarmed. This gross and wanton outrage, following so rapidly upon many others of a similar charneter, calls for a strong remonstrance from the Foreign Ministers at Peking. It is very by Signora Palmieri. The aria "Q luce di quest" evident that it is still unsafe for foreigners -to-travel-beyond-the-confines-of-the Treaty-Ports. It is the duty of the Peking Government to afford protection to foreigners from the violence of mobs. But they seem both unable and unwilling to do so. And yet this is the Government which the British Ministry Palmieri has a rich and powerful voice, over appear so desirous of treating as a friendly power, and placing on a footing with civilised states. Surely recent circumstances will suffice to convince them that it is value to trust to the good faith of the Chinese Government, or the friendly disposition of the people. The Government is effete, and strong in nothing but edicts which are full of sound without signification, and the ignorant portion of the people are excited to batred of the foreigners by interested officials and stupid, prejudiced fanatics. They have is a good and safe engine to put in motion was, on the whole, a decided success, and gave against the "barbarians," but they have great satisfaction to the audience. THURSDAY'S CONCERT On Thursday night Signorn Maria Palmieri, assisted by Signorian Alice Persiani and Signor Royal, City Hall. There was a fairly good attendance, but sourcely equal to the merits, and probably also the hones, of the artistes. Lovers of the Opera have few opportunities in the far East of bearing good music, and hence it might have been expected that there would have been a larger andience on this occasion. The selections in the first part were from Barbiere. Persiani's rendering of the cavating. "Roberto. Roberto," was loudly applauded, and the " Jewel Song " in Faust was also very well received, but II. opened with a selection from Trovatore. anima." Linda di Chamouniz (Donizetti), was tastefully and spiritedly sung by Signorina Persiuni, and persistently redemanded. The gem of the evening, however, was undoubtedly. the duet. "Mira o Norma," Norma, in which both the lady artistes were most successful. and obtained a determined encore. Signora which she possesses the most absolute command, and her style is thoroughly dramatic. Signorina Persiani possesses a fine clear voice, which, though not so full-toned and powerful as that of the Signora; is sweet and true. Both of them were shown off to most advantage in the dust, which was tellingly given. Their appearance in costume added considerably to the general effect, and had its chare in conducing to the success of the concert. Signor Palmieri contributed two selections to the programme, which were neatly sung. The accompaniments were carefully and efficiently played by two next, when we hope a larger attendance will be secured. Those who have not beard these really talented artistes should not fail to avail
